

WE NOMINATE

Frederick Melton Raubinger, a dedicated and courageous public servant, who this week—as scores of New Jersey school districts continue to grapple with problems rooted in stubborn patterns of segregation—will unostentatiously observe the 11th anniversary of his induction as the State's Commissioner of Education. It was on August 16, 1952, some 18 months before the U.S. Supreme Court handed down its far-reaching school desegregation order, that this soft-spoken, 57-year old career educator entered upon a stewardship which spanned the closing years of Republican Alfred E. Driscoll's second administration and has been carried forward by two Democratic Governors.

In a post, that in view of one veteran observer "is almost as much of a fish-bowl as the Governor's office," Raubinger each week copes with issues undreamed-of even by his most visionary predecessors. Over the past year, with the controversial aspects of the "civil rights revolution" dominating the headlines, his often dramatic role in integration matters has overshadowed his approaches to such equally compelling problems as teacher shortages on all levels of education, the ever-mushrooming school population, the revitalization of state-sustained colleges, and the alarming percentage of "high school drop-outs."

Sometimes assailed by fellow educators for his "traditionalism" and for what has been termed his "lack of aggression" in beefing up New Jersey's educational operations, Raubinger, headquartered here in his Battle Road home, has won national attention for his forceful handling of "racial imbalance cases," notably in Englewood, Plainfield and Orange. In the last-cited case, where the Orange School Board allegedly defied his direct order to produce "some remedy for de facto segregation," Raubinger acted with devastating swiftness and forced a showdown by withholding some $250,000 in state school aid payments.

Unconcerned with the political implications of his actions, and always reluctant to discuss politics from any point of view, Raubinger—like so many of the Atlantic Seaboard's top-rank educational administrators—has his roots in the Middle West. The son of a prospector and mining superintendent, he worked his way through Southwest Missouri State College as a newspaper reporter, "came East" for his advanced degrees at Columbia University, and did his first teaching in the High School of Springfield, Missouri, combining courses in English with training in journalism, a profession he still looks to with a degree of yearning.

Prior to accepting Governor Driscoll's appointment, Raubinger, an "alumnus" of the excellent Montclair school system, had evenly divided 12 years between the direction of the Passaic Valley Regional High School District and the superintendency of the Ridgewood (N. J.) schools. The recipient in recent years of a number of distinctions, including a smattering of honorary doctoral degrees and the Medal for Distinguished Service of one of his alma maters, Columbia Teachers' College, he is an enthusiastic Princetonian whose leisure-time interests range from reading and high-level bridge to the clarinet and excellent weekend tennis.

For prompting this recent comment by a close associate: "I never remember seeing him ruffled, no matter what the crisis", for his abiding concern for the "higher issues of equitable and equitable community relationships", for quietly facing up to the challenges of our times, he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

GOING UP!
Build, Build, Build. Princeton's summer song in this August of 1963 is a mixture—the noisy clang of wrecking claw and cement mixer as old buildings come down and new ones go up, and the whirring of pencil sharpeners as architects and property owners try to decide what to build where next.

There never was such a summer for building, especially for office construction. Four brand new Nassau Street office buildings are on various rungs of the construction ladder, two more are in the works out on Route 206. Expansion or remodeling operations are going on within six existing office buildings. An uncounted number of older houses in the business zone have been, or will be, converted to office space.

PEEPING THROUGH THAT PEEPHOLE: Rain or shine, sidewalk superintendents pause at the peepholes thoughtfully punched out of the fence at 70 Nassau by an under-standing contractor. Walk around to the north side of the site next to the post office and you can see it all, without benefit of fence. But isn't it more fun to peek through a keyhole? More about construction in "This Is Princeton."

And this count doesn't include Nassau Street School and Witherspoon Street School, both of which are on the block. Maybe for offices? Add up all the acoustical tile and the airconditioning and the final figure is about 210,000 square feet of new office space, and that's a lot of desks.

In the meantime, of course, there are the University with its own continuing construction program, and all the various private enterprises that have been, or will be, building on their own.

The resulting hum and dust is considerable. The University alone, at the moment, has about 350 men working on its various projects. The figure shifts as buildings are finished and new ones are started, and may rise to about 400 workmen before long.

Added to the men at work on Nassau, Chambers and Route 206, and the number that will be working as new building permits are implemented, the number of lunch pails may reach 600 before winter sends construction workers into semi-hibernation.

How Many? What's the run-down on Nassau Street building operations? (We use "Nassau Street" in a generic sense; Chambers is included, too.)

194 Nassau, George Sands & Associates, Inc., has taken out a building permit for the 22,000 square-foot office building that will go up when the old house at 194 has been torn down. (The property is next door to Morris Maple, across from Nassau Street School.) It's to be a three-story building 79 by 93 feet, with room for stores on the street floor and offices above.

221 Nassau, Opposite St. Paul's School, Edward E. Faroe, Delwin Gregory and Margaret Coghlan plan another three-story office building, this one with 9,250 square feet.

22 Chambers, A Princeton corporation whose spokesman is hockey coach Norman Wood began this week to raze the old Nassau-Conover Motors complex to make room for an office building with 24,000 square feet of space. Construction will begin some time this fall.

70 Nassau, And of course the grand-daddy of them all is Palmer Square's five-story building with its 60,000 square feet of retail and office space. About a quarter of the new building will be occupied by Princeton Bank and Trust, which will move from its old building at 12 Nassau.

And Out on the Highway, Mr. Sands' enterprise is erecting another office building, this one in Montgomery Township on Route 206 near Mr. Sands' 206 Shopping Center. Ready for occupancy early this fall, the building will have 14,400 square feet of space in its two stories, half of which will be occupied by one tenant. The other half is up for rental.

Across the highway and back in Princeton Township, contractor William Buel has built about 8-10,000 square feet of space on property across the highway from Nhl Plymouth. Originally conceived as an office building, the Buel structure may be converted to other uses, depending on the tenant.

Remodeled office space is now available, too. All the ground floor and third floor of 20 Nassau has been rented, but there is some space still to go on the second floor. Richard A. Charlton, the architect, has expanded and remodeled his 20 Nassau basement space to a sizeable suite.

In the 80-81 Nassau Building over the old "Balt." Edmund Cook has 3,000 square feet of newly-done office space to rent, and for tenants who like the country air, there are 3,000 square feet ready for the asking in the Teehee Building on Route One (the old Penns Neck Community Center).

Still More. Charles Draine was low bidder for the Princeton Water Company building at 166 Nassau. He will probably remodel, but he plans to continue the second and third floors as private apartments. He will move his own offices to the ground floor space now occupied by the water company.

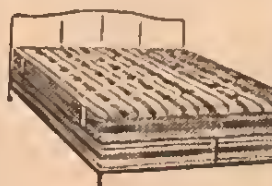

Bryce Thompson's new section for Thompson Court is just about finished, although tenants like Traveler have been in for many months. Mr. Thompson plans to make about 1,500 square feet of retail store space out of the basement of the Thompson Building. The white house that is the core of his structure, it will be ready by spring.

While they watch through the Nassau Street peepholes and add up the square footage, many real estate agents ask themselves "Where will it end?" How much more office space does Princeton really

Round-Up

About 40 "peace marchers" on their way from Quebec to Cuba trekked through Princeton last weekend. Arrived in town 4:30 p.m. Saturday, spent the night in the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, renewed their 3,500-mile trip south at 11 a.m. Sunday.

The march, called "The Quebec-Washington-Cuba National Walk," is sponsored by the Committee for Nonviolent Action. Purpose is to find a peaceful solution to tensions between the United States and Cuba.

Dr. Howard S. Unangst, victim of the knifing and kicking assault following a minor automobile accident on August 4, was released from Princeton Hospital last Thursday. He will be out of town until Monday recuperating from his injuries, his office reports.

Meanwhile, Edward Buckner, 31, of Staten Island, who was admitted that he wielded the knife, is still in Somerset County Jail. Grand jury action on the charges against him of atrocious assault will probably be delayed until September.

Last week's weather: a pleasant duplicate of that of the week before. Clear, warm, tolerable 80s in daytime, clear, cool nights, mostly in the 50s. Only a dash of rain 15 of an inch on Wednesday.

A couple of thousand homes were without electricity this past Tuesday afternoon for more than an hour. Areas affected were the western part of West Windsor Township and the eastern sector of Princeton. Public Service said that cable failure, cause unknown, resulted in the power-out. Because the offending cable passes under Harrison Street and then under Carnegie Lake, it may take up to two months to locate the cause.

Want to telephone Governor Hughes? It's easy. Just dial EX 2-1557 any Tuesday or Thursday afternoon. The voice you'll hear will be the Gov's.

No use talking back, though, unless it'll make you feel better. What you'll hear is a recording made from his press conference earlier in the day.

The intriguing career of a Princeton resident who began selling patent medicines by wagon in 1899 and eventually became head of the Jell-O division of General Foods is detailed on page 16. He's Charles J. Callan, octogenarian, golfer, and maker of the home-made jellies sold at fairs, here under the label "Callan's Kitchen."

Does today's world place too much emphasis on the value of a college education? Your friends and neighbors answer in Question of the Week (page 5). A rejection of the Negro couple as tenants by a landlord threatened by anonymous telephone calls continues to draw comment in Mailbox (page 12). Men and women in service are among the numerous People in the News (page 19).

How have the stock values of Princeton area corporations fared in the last three months, and where do they stand in comparison to August, 1962? The quarterly report compiled for TOWN TOPICS by the First Princeton Corporation tells the story on page 18. A view of Princeton at five-year intervals in the post-war years is provided in Going Back in TOWN TOPICS (page 9).

Who are the eleven players likely to start for Princeton when it opens its 1963 football season against Rutgers next month? They're named in the third of a series of articles on The Tigers' football prospects, while the climax of several baseball and softball races is also covered in Sports in Princeton (pages 22-26).

Small boys enjoying a field day racing model cars are the subject of an illustrated report on the Nassau Hobby Shop in Q1's New to Us, page 7. An invitation to express your opinion on the test ban treaty to one of your Senators appears on page 14. need? How many desks can be enticed into these spaces from out of town, lured perhaps by the prestige of a Princeton address?

Sign 'Em Up. One reader says that it is folly to build an office building on speculation. "I wouldn't want to build unless I had every tenant all signed up," he says.

A Princeton contractor with land to build on and a good location considered the possibility of a small office building a few months ago, but has "no plans at the moment."

Space in an older building on Nassau Street is about $3-$4 a square foot, in newer buildings from $5 to $6.50. This compares with a possible $15 for New York structures like the new Pan American building.

In Princeton, of course, many tenants want only 100-200 square feet, just enough for a desk and a telephone and that Princeton address. Such an office may bring $50 to $125 a month. Tenants who rent larger spaces—retail stores, and so on—usually pay lower rates.

Research and Retail. But all is not typewriters and telephones in the Princeton building picture. American Can has just broken ground for its research establishment on 26 acres in Princeton Township.

The Institute for Advanced Study began last month to build its fabulous new library. Ingersoll Rand has an option on property in Rocky Hill for a research plant on 270 acres of land.

Nassau Oil has a spacious vista on the corner of Hulsh and Witherspoon, now that the Griggs buildings, the Frazee Fish Market and the Midway Tavern have been razed, and hopes to start building its new gas station early in October. On Route 206 in Montgomery Township, the new Volkswagen Agency, to be known as Princeton Motors, will be ready by mid-autumn. A West Orange firm is behind the enterprise.

In West Windsor, rumors of a giant shopping center persist but go unconfirmed by township officials. However a four-unit retail building is being built in Princeton Junction. The owner, Henry L. Schafer, has already leased

Princeton Clergymen Support March On Washington

Rabbi Everett Gendler

"All who possibly can should join the pilgrimage."

Rev. Dr. Richard Luecke

His Lutheran congregation is squarely behind the march.

Rev. Robert P. Murray

"Catholics throughout the nation will join gladly."

TOPICS Of the Town

MARCH ON WASHINGTON
"100 Years In Coming."
Plans are shaping up for Princeton civil rights demonstrators to join the August 28 "March on Washington."

Members of the clergy here have rallied in support of the delegation. Circulars soliciting participants and funds were distributed in the churches last Sunday.

Arrangements for the $5 trip range from air-conditioned Tiger Line buses to a free baby-sitting service from 5:30 a.m. on. The March committee formed by the coordinating Princeton Group for Human Rights is also soliciting employers for a day-off-with-pay arrangements.

Noting that August 28 marks the centennial of Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation, the Rev. Dr. Richard Luecke of Lutheran Church of the Messiah, placed his congregation squarely behind the planned demonstration. "Members of our parish will join fellow Princetonians on this historic occasion—which has been 100 years in coming!"

"I am glad that some Catholics in Princeton are using this as a means of expressing the Church's deep concern in the achievement of racial justice," says the Rev. Robert P. Murray, chaplain of the Aquinas Foundation at Princeton University. "Catholics throughout the nation... will join in it gladly, for they are fully committed to the ideals of human dignity and equality."

"Sense of Urgency." The president of the Princeton Pastors' Association, the Rev. Dr. Donald M. Meisel of First

Presbyterian Church, told TOWN TOPICS on Tuesday. "The pressure is on for us to come of age in the whole matter of race and human rights. 'Princeton must respond to and be a part of that pressure. I endorse with enthusiasm—and a sense of urgency—the fact that we will be represented in Washington on the 28th by a nucleus of our citizenry.'"

Others backing the demonstration include the Rev. Dr. Robert R. Spears, Jr., rector of Trinity Church; the Rev. Charles G. Newbery, vicar of All Saints' Chapel of Trinity Parish; the Rev. Dr. Robert the police will try to keep open Presbyterians' Westminster Foundation at the University; Rabbi Everett Gendler, Princeton Jewish Center; and Prof. W. Paul Jones of the department of religion at the University.

Rabbi Gendler commented, "The major national religious bodies are unanimous in urging all who possibly can to join personally in this one-day, moral pilgrimage so vital to our entire nation. Simply to be there matters."

The March. The Committee for the March will be responsible for the organization of the delegation until its return about 8:30 p.m. on the 28th. The buses will leave the parking lot on the Harrison Street side of Bamberger's at 6 a.m. Marchers are asked to bring sandwiches for lunch and supper.

Committee members are: Mrs. Jere Bruner, Mrs. Richard I. Bergman, Thomas Caldwell, Mrs. Floyd Campbell, Mrs. Lester V. Chandler, Prof. Malcolm Diamond, Henry Drewry, Mrs. E. Harris Harrison, Mrs. Alfred Kornegay, Prof. and Mrs. Ernest A. Lynton, Mr. and Mrs. Simeon F. Moss, the Rev. Mr. Newbery, Professor Robert R. Palmer, Henry Pannell and the Rev. Albert Tyson Jr.

"Patriotic Restraint." Dr. Luecke emphasized that the demonstration in Washington "will combine a firm, nationwide insistence with a firm, patriotic restraint. This is to be a march to the Lincoln Memorial, not a march on the nation's capitol."

The magnitude of the rally of an estimated 100,000 to 200,000 people has given Washington police officials their largest project to date. They note that there is a "crucial difference" between the demonstration and the 750,000 persons who turned out for the Eisenhower Inaugural parades as spectators. "We don't expect any spectators during the march. They will all be participants, on one side or the other."

The police have declared most of the southwest section of Washington an embargoed area beginning at dawn August 28. The 14th Street Bridge, linking the city with Virginia will remain open, and Montgomery, chaplain of the Memorial Bridge, the Virginia commuters' link, during the morning rush hours.

At noon, the demonstrators will march the half mile from the Washington Monument to the Lincoln Memorial. Seats for every Senator and Representative in Congress will be placed at the Memorial for the rally, scheduled to begin no later than 2 p.m. and to end by 4:30 p.m.

The civil rights organizers have recruited 2,000 volunteer parade marshals to deal with the possibility of a counter demonstration by segregationists. In addition, there are 1,000 men of the Army's 3rd Infantry in reserve at Fort Myer, Va., just across the Potomac.

Deadline. Applications received so far by Henry Drewry of 2 Glenview Drive show that Princeton will field a biracial contingent which will include teachers, housewives, clergymen, researchers, college students and a postman, Mr. Drewry, a member of the executive committee for the Princeton Group for Human Rights, states that the deadline for signing up has been extended to August 24. Arrange for buses will be facilitated if the bulk of the applications are received by this Saturday, he said.

Inquiries about the march are directed to Professor Malcolm Diamond, another executive committee member, at WA 1-7047; Thomas Caldwell, WA 4-3581; Mrs. Elizabeth Chandler, WA 4-5449; or the Rev. Rowland Cox, who is also a member of an Episcopalian strategy committee in Washington, at WA 4-6347.

Information about the free baby-sitting service at the Princeton Nursery School, 78 Leigh Avenue, may be obtained from Mrs. Ernest A. Lynton, WA 4-4830. Volunteers to staff the nursery are also asked to call Mrs. Lynton.

Funds. Mr. Drewry reports contributions from eight people who cannot go to Washington. The gifts will help pay for those marchers who cannot afford the $5 fare. Additional funds are "urgently needed," he said.

The Rev. W. Paul Jones of the University's department of religion and presently assisting in the Methodist Church, sums up for the clergy: "Nothing is more sacred than the right of every American to claim his full right and express his basic brotherhood."

DEADLINE EXTENDED
For 30-Unit Project. The Princeton Housing Authority has been given an extra two and one-half months to clear the legal ground for its proposed 30-unit project for the elderly on North Harrison Street.

three of the four spaces—to the Thorne Pharmacy, the Ellsworth Delicatessen and Lucar Hardware. The fourth space may become a Princeton Junction post office, if negotiations between Mr. Schafer and United States postal officials are fruitful.

On campus, the University juggles more than a dozen buildings, in every stage from pre-building-permit to final ribbon-cutting.

Almost Completed: the Woolworth Center for Musical Study, the Architecture Building, the additions to the Graduate College.

In Process: Undergraduate dormitories on Goldie Field, the new wing on Frick Chemical Laboratories; Woodrow Wilson (re-doing the old building that was moved. Construction on the new building scheduled to start in a week or two); alterations to John C. Green Hall, the old Engineering Hall.

Future: McCormick Hall and art museum (this fall), a new addition to Guyot Hall parallel to the one built two years ago; the Administration Building recently approved by Borough Council; an addition to the Engineering Laboratories at the James Forrestal Research Center.

Under Discussion: the second faculty apartment building on Lake Carnegie. Legal problems with the Township have not been completely solved.

Grow, Grow, Grow. And so, between town and gown, Princeton is growing. It's the kind of growing that sometimes brings anguished cries from long-time residents who foresee the loss of the little country town they knew as Princeton.

It's a feeling not new on the town. Back in the late '20's, when 20 Nassau Street was on the drawing board, a group of citizens became alarmed at the thought of a giant black office building encroaching on the tree-lined street.

Banding together, they bought an adjoining strip of land parallel to Nassau Street about ten feet wide and as long as 20 Nassau's frontage.

This maneuver forced the builders to re-draw their plans and retreat to 20 Nassau's present set-back.

But some work had already begun on the basement, and pedestrians walking today in front of 20 Nassau walk on a ten-foot wide blacktop sidewalk, laid to cover the basement skylights that were already in place when plans were changed. Later, the owners of the strip decided it to the Borough.

Audible Silence

I've never heard
A soul complain
About a misty Summer rain.

Not this summer, anyway. The showers of late may have interrupted outings and golf games now and then, but the dryness of the ground just below the surface still testifies to the steady need for more moisture.

Showers are possible along about Friday, the Man reports, with the rest of the picture generally clear. Those lower-than-normal August temperatures will continue to be a part of the scene, too.

fore final Federal approval can be given. The original deadline was mid-July.

The first step now is to find out how much the land is worth. The Authority has been given the money to retain an appraiser, and his report is due some time next week. The Federal government has never set a ceiling price, but if the appraisal is regarded as too high Federal officials would say "no."

According to Donald C. Bryant, attorney for the Authority, the owner of the land, Charles LaPlaca, is unwilling to sell his property to the Housing Authority.

CARS AND CAMERA TAKEN

During Past Week. Three cars and a camera the latter with accessories worth $700, were stolen from Princeton parking lots during the past week.

A 1959 Rambler was stolen on August 6 from the Lehiere-Kane parking lot on Tulane Street. After a search by Borough patrolmen, the car was found abandoned in the Westminster Choir College parking lot.

Two days later Fred Van-Deventer, 133 Mansgrove Road, reported theft of his $700 camera and attachments from his car in the rear of 180 Nassau Street. The camera, a Pentax 35 mm, was in a dark brown carrying case.

John McCracken of 583 Chrome Street, New Brunswick, reported that his 1950 Buick had been stolen from the Witherspoon Street parking yard sometime between 8:15 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Friday. The car was recovered two days later in Lawrence Township, near Circle Bowling Lanes.

On Saturday, Gertrude E. Larky, Spring Hill Road, Skillman, reported a black cloth tool kit had been taken from her car in the Witherspoon parking yard. On Monday, Joseph Smith Jr., a student at Princeton Theological Seminary, reported that his 1959 Volkswagen had been stolen from the Seminary parking lot near College Road. The car has not been recovered.

TO A DEGREE, YES AND NO: The "yes" is voiced by Michael Zeccola (left) who feels that the need for a college education cannot be overemphasized. Not so, says Bill Pendergast, who would question the high premium this country places on a college education. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think the need to obtain a college education is overemphasized in this country?

Where asked: Palmer Square

Michael Zeccola, 32 Humbert Street, linotype operator, University Place No. 1 don't think so. I think if you have a college education you can look forward to a much better future. Definitely, I've seen that in action where guys are no smarter than guys who haven't gone to college yet they still make out a lot better. Not all the time, perhaps, but in most cases. If you have a degree from Princeton University, you're in.

William J. Pendergast, Jr., Robbinsville, multilith press operator at RCA: Yes, I think it is. It's been my experience that a lot of guys out of college aren't any brainer or better than a lot of guys who didn't go. They just have more money and money means a lot around here. If a person applies himself at college then I agree he'll get a lot out of it, but too many guys go to college just to goof off for four years.

Miss Kathy Weimer, 112 Random Road, student at Jackson College, women's division of Tufts: No, not really. It is overemphasized when you think you can't get a good job without a college education but what you get out of college can never be overemphasized. The phrase "college education" has become too pat, in my opinion. I still feel it is very worthwhile if you attend college with the right attitude and not just for the sake of getting a degree.

Seward Hiltner, 47 Wescott Road, professor, Princeton Theological Seminary: I think we need far more emphasis on getting students who are qualified for a college education and who are not getting one. But this should be for the right reason. It should be for the sake of education itself, for responsible citizenship in a democratic society and not simply for economic and prestige reasons.

Miss Eleanor Catto, Toronto, Canada, speech pathologist: Yes, it's getting so bad you practically have to have a college education today in order to cut someone's hair.

Stuart Kasdan, 47 University Place, summer employee at RCA (graduate student, University of Chicago): Yes, I do, in many cases. I think there are many people who are attending college when their needs could be satisfied by attending institutions for whatever trade they may be interested in. When these people find themselves in college, I think they tend to lower the standards of the college. Parents are pressured into sending their kids to college because a degree has become a status symbol and a college degree has replaced a high school diploma as the basic, minimum standard of education today. This is true in many professions today and it doesn't have to be. For those who do have the intellectual capacity to handle a good college education, I feel every effort should be made to give them one, regardless of their financial condition, race, color and anything of that nature.

James A. O'Donnell, 55 Main Street, Kingston, hotel keeper: I do. I realize a college education is very essential to any young man but I do feel it is overemphasized — there's too much hullabaloo about a college education. A young man interested in making good could very easily go to school at night and become whatever he was interested in. The main thing is the man himself. If he has initiative ability, willingness to learn, aggressiveness and will not stop until he gains his goal he'll make out all right. In fact, he'll make out a lot better than a lot of graduates; know and worked with you ago, ones that had the training, perhaps, but didn't like the idea of hard work.

Miss Dianne Grover, Pennington - Lawrenceville Road sophomore, Mount Holyoke College: The need for a college education, yes, but not the need for education. There has been too much emphasis on getting a college degree which perhaps some type of technical training would be better for some people. I think people should follow their interests instead of getting a degree just for the sake of having a degree.

Raymond Nackoney, River Road, summer student at Accelerator: No, I don't believe there is. There is no doubt there is pressure to get a higher degree, in fact, the higher the better. Even graduate school is being stressed more and more today. But I feel it all depends on the person. Many people want to go into a technical trade of some kind such as electronic technician and I believe this is still education of a type.

Ludwig H. Wedemeyer, Eugene, Ore., German and mathematics teacher, attending Princeton University Language school: Yes, I think so. A good many people don't know why they want to go to college except their parents are pushing them. They overlook the fact we need well-trained technicians. Industry is crying for them. I think many would be a lot better off if they went to a tech school because for the next 20 years, job openings will be terrific. Industry can only absorb 70% because the rest have not been adequately trained.

News Of The THEATRES

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE
Irma La Douce (now playing.) As The New Yorker points out, prostitution is the oldest profession in the world, and willing about it is the second-oldest. This time Director Billy Wilder ("The Apartment") and writer L.A.L. Diamond treat the subject with raffish good humor in the film adaptation of "Irma," using Jack Lemmon and Shirley MacLaine to tell the story.
Wilder has turned the musical show of a few years ago into a vulgar but reasonably funny movie (provided it is ever possible to think of the topic as funny). Credit for whatever humor there is in the show goes to Lemmon and MacLaine — not to the script.
One sample of the dialogue should be enough to show you that the lines with which Lemmon and MacLaine have to work are hardly memorable. MacLaine is showing Lemmon her garret apartment and says that it once belonged to an artist who cut off his ear. "Oh," says Mr. Lemmon, "was his name van Gogh?" "No," says Miss MacLaine. "Schwartz."
With humor at such a level,

LA POULE ET LE POOOLE: Shirley MacLaine and friend in a scene from "Irma La Douce," now at the Prince and the Playhouse.

It's a wonder that either Miss MacLaine or Mr. Lemmon remained on the set. But they did, and, solely because of them, "Irma" comes off as a fairly diverting movie.

GARDEN
For Love or Money (through Tuesday), Kirk Douglas finds himself in one of those thin copies of "It Happened One Night" which Hollywood has been grinding out at the rate of about 7,500 a year ever since the prototype made such a bang. "For Love or Money" is a lot like the others — low temperature comedy which, with pretensions of being too clever, ends up by not being very funny at all.
The story is, of course, impossible. In the multi-million-dollar world which Hollywood thinks of as "sophisticated", Douglas (and not Cary Grant, for a change) is hired for $100,000 to bring about the marriages of Thelma Ritter's three dissimilar female issue.
Mitzi Gaynor, Julie Newmar and Leslie Parrish as the three daughters all present Mr. Douglas with problems, cloying and faintly amusing at best, as he struggles to carry out his assignment. Obviously, because the standard script says so, he marries one of them.

As usual, the plush opulence, the yachts, clothes and characters dotting the dream-cape setting are all pleasant to see. And the overworked story is still mildly diverting. It will probably bore you more than it will amuse you, unless nonsensical nonsense is what you are looking for. Strictly run-of-the-gin-mill Hollywood.

RANO ORAMA COMING
To Bucks Playhouse. "Night of January 16th," Ayn Rand's only play, will open for a two-week run Monday at Bucks County Playhouse, New Hope. The courtroom drama deals with a woman who has killed her employer, and the jury will be chosen from the audience each night.

There are two endings to the play, set in the financial world of New York, depending on the jury's verdict. Jerome Cowan and Jack Pyle portray the district attorney and defense attorney respectively.
The supporting cast includes Carolyn Miller, Ron Polao, David Metcalf, Walter Reimer, Bjorn Koefood, Alan Ansara, Marilyn McCormick, Paul J. Bieble, Eleana Kehler, Fran Brill, Chuck Read, Ed Benson, Estelle Evans, Alan Hazlett, Eileen Leitchworth, Kate Morris, Carol Androsky, Peg Bray and Pat Aldrich.
Clarke Dunham has designed the set, and the production is directed by Harvey Medlinsky. "No Bed of Roses," a musical version of "The Fourposter," completes its run this Saturday. Jean Kerr's comedy, "King of Hearts," follows "Night of January 16th."
Performances are given at 8:30 Monday through Saturday, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday at 2 p.m.

"IRMA" AT MUSIC TENT
"Paint Your Wagon" Next. Jan Chaney, Joel Warfield and Ted Scott are the stars of "Irma La Douce," playing at Lambertville's Music Circus through Sunday. Among the songs are "Our Language of"—Continued on Page 8

THE NEW STRAND
And what a week! In the first place, if you are reading this on Wed, Aug 14, don't forget FORBIDDEN GAMES tonight only, 7 and 8:45 P.M.

On Aug 18, 1955, long before the Strand became the New Strand, our river very nearly washed New Hope and Lambertville into Delaware Bay. To commemorate this occasion, we will show, Aug 15 - 21, a short film called OISASTER AT NEW HOPE which chronicles some of the exciting events of that memorable period.

The New Hope Auto Show will be held on Aug 17 of this year, and to commemorate THAT we are showing the delightful British comedy GENEVIEVE, a color film about a couple of antique cars. On the same program Alec Guinness portrays Gully Jimson, a rascally genius of a painter, in Joyce Cary's THE HORSE'S MOUTH, also in color. A great week-end for film fans. THURS, 8:30, GENEVIEVE first, FRI - SAT, HORSE'S MOUTH at 7 and 10:10; GENEVIEVE at 8:40 only.

SUN - TUES, AUG 18 - 20, cheerfulness breaks into Satyajit Ray's Indian Trilogy with the third and final film, THE WOLO OF APU. If you missed the other two because you have troubles of your own, you will find that in this one Mr. Ray has permitted us a ray of hope. SUN, 7 and 9; MON - TUES 8:30.

WED., AUG 21, 7 and 9 p.m., THE MIRACLE WORKER, from the play by William Gibson about the early education of a deaf, dumb and blind little girl named Helen Keller. Anne Bancroft and Patty Duke give you something to think about.

If our August schedule is awesome, our September schedule is stupendous. Write for our monthly bulletin, which also gives you news of our new Film Society.

IT'S NEW To Us

RACE!
Cars Lined Up? Never one to bring out a wet blanket where a dry cell is more appropriate, we refrained from mentioning the imminence of school to a group of racing car buffs we met the other day
at Nassau Hobby and Crafts, 142 Nassau.

These are indoor racing car buffs, you understand, not black jackets who tear up Route One. They range all over the lot in age, and "back to school" at 142 can mean
"kindergarten starts September 5" or "Rutgers opens on the 19th."

Nassau Hobby and Crafts
used to be on down the street, but has recently moved to the location next to Hulit's Shoe Store. Here, in the kind of dream world you have to be made to understand, boys and men can race their cars on a permanet set-up 17 feet long by four feet wide. If they have bought their cars at Nassau Hobby, they can race free. If they haven't got a car, they can rent one for 25 cents for 15 minutes.

The day we were there, four young men in various age categories were racing the swaggering little cars to the tune of panting transformers and the gentle bell on the cash register.

We mention the cash register because Nassau Hobby and Crafts is more than just a bowling alley for two-inch cars. It is also, as you probably know by now, a full-dress hobby shop. It caters particularly to the young men who build model racers and model airplanes, and for them it has every accessory you could imagine, probably more than a standard-size used car lot.

Here you may buy the equipment to build a five-inch racer from start: the chassis and the gears, the cast aluminum wheels, the soft-ply tires to make the car go fast, the special little motors no bigger than a pill-box but priced at about $5. Well, for $10, you can have a CAR, if you want to spend that much. Lower prices, too, of course, depending mostly on the motor you buy.

While we were browsing, a hobbyist not long out of first grade dropped in to buy a Mc-Coy 19 for his airplane. That's a motor, we found out. He has a scale airplane that flies, probably one of Guillow's like the Aerona, or the Piper Super Cub 95. We didn't quiz him closely because his knowledge was obviously recondite beyond our understanding, but we looked at some of the airplane kits and they looked pretty exciting.

If your interest in models is on a more modest scale than this young man's, you might settle for a fascinating new collection made out of California redwood. There's a Cona-

WANNA RACE? Anybody who buys a racing car at Nassau Hobby & Crafts can race it there free. Racers who don't have a car can rent one (25 cents for 15 minutes) and join the car-owners at this track set up by Illeg Woolwuc, who owns stoga wagon, a buckboard, a Jerkey's wagon, mules, oxen and horses, and circus wagons like a gorilla cage, a circus dray and a stagecoach, probably full of gold. Unusual to find wooden models in this day of plastics, especially ones as well-made and authentic as these.

Then, to leap ahead a bit,
there are rocket tubes, nose cones and fins to "do it yourself" to the moon, and rocket kits, too, if you want somebody else to do the hard work first.
HO fans will want the historic Civil War and 1880 C.B.
& Q. trains, and young scientists will want the car, eye, nose, finger, skeleton kits. (We liked the one with four reptiles to put together.)

That fiendish little boy who lives next door has already bought some Weird-Oh kits, probably the one called "Daddy" which is a freakish commuter in a car made like a casket, with an attache case in his hand. "Make your own monster," says the box.

Ready-made monsters are here, too. There's a six-inch "creature," a Dracula, Frankenstein's monster and a Wolf Man.

Just because hobbies and fun and games are in order at Nassau Hobby and Crafts, don't think school has been forgotten: on the counter in innocent display is a little box of dried peas, wrapped in small cellophane envelopes, and next is a prim box of pink and blue and green — bean shooters. Hey, teach! Here we come!

sewing for the first day of first

So, of course, is the Fabric saying.

Jumpers and shift-jumpers are on the books for fall, no

is. Vogue has some wonderfully simple shift-jumpers that

"Love," "Noble Sons of France," "There's Only One Paris For That" and "Valse Milieu."

The musical numbers are staged by Edward Earle, a member of the cast, with Robert Turoff directing. Stuart Bishop designed the sets, and Al Frank is the musical director.

"Paint Your Wagon" will open Tuesday at 8:30 for a week's engagement. Curtain times are 6 and 9:30 p.m. Saturday, and 8:30 Tuesday through Sunday. Children under 12 are admitted free if accompanied by an adult to the 6 p.m. show Saturday.

"Mi Baba and the Thieves" will be presented Saturday at 11 a.m. by the Peppermint Players as part of the Children's musical series. On Monday, the jazz special will feature George Shearing.

Question Of The Week

trained. One problem, as I see it, is we don't have enough high school counselors to guide the students. In my high school, we have one counselor for every 400 students. He can't do the job. Dr. Conant recommends no more than 200 students per counselor and even at that rate he would be able to devote less than a day to each student over the year.

... ONE, TWO, THREE, INHALE! Kirk Douglas (left) teaches Mitz Gaynor, Leslie Parrish and Julie Newmar how to smoke in "For Love or Money," now at the Garden.

James M. Brennan, 121 Bayard Lane, assistant to the Chairman, Department of Chemistry, Princeton University: No, I don't. I've been in the job market from time to time since I graduated from college almost 25 years ago. I've been in a hiring position and I know a college education is important. It may be played up too much in certain aspects occasionally, but whether it has been overemphasized, I couldn't say for sure from my small circle.

cept for its mild sheen. We found it in cranberry and in olive, in solids and a self-stripe woven like a tight basketweave.

Herringbone wool in a grey-green — what a fabric for a classic campus skirt! Or a scholarly Oxford grey flannel. Or chocolate brown flannel.

Tobacco homespun glows like an autumn leaf, and bright turquoise homespun is an October sky. You may want to experiment with the new olive-green suede cloth for wrap-around, vest or jumper. They call the cotton fabric "Spanish olive." No pimienta.

For kindergartners going off in cotton, Fabric Shop has Peter Pan collars in the times, brightest prints you ever saw, just like your five-year-old. One is barn red with quarter-inch medallions.

Another has floral stripes only an inch wide. Another is black with red, white and gold provincial designs. Why not try Simplicity's 5091 jumper, or the 5133 smock-jumper for sizes 2-6?

Quilted prints will be along any day now, and while you wait, you can look at the 20 different bolts of gingham and plaids — the brown Glen style, the miniature red and dark green or the Kelly green with hairline black.

LAYER ON LAYER

In New Sports Clothes. You'll be dressed like a cake this fall, in layers and layers of separates. Turtle-necks under shirts under sweaters, or scarves under shirts under vests. It's all new and quite devastatingly casual, and made especially for girls who are thin as thin.

Stacy's in the Lawrence Shopping Center has more layers than a torte. See what you can do with a huge chocolate brown bulky sweater, and a brown silk shirt with shimmering gold print like insect's wings. Or, the tomato leather vest ($15) and a cream colored silk shirt.

A green hopsacking slark has a blanket wool popover in lime-green-gold with a deep olive underblouse made of nylon stretch with long, tight sleeves and a flattering cowl neck that can be pulled around your head to wear as a hood.

You could wear a black turtle-neck under the cherry red flat knit overblouse that goes with cherry red pants, because the flat turnover collar has plenty of room above.

We found tapered slacks on four different racks, if you can believe it. There's a camel wool-orlon for $15, good grey flannel for $13, all-wool hopsacking for $18 and a shimmering emerald silk. Walk

Ahead with Mink

Our fall hat is going to be the little mink bred especially for Mr. John. It's small — the hat, that is — with rolled-up brim and a classic air that will make it "good" for many seasons, which it had jolly well better be, considering that it costs $110.

Our second-best fall hat will be "fur" with quotation marks. It, too, is small, in black and grey with a tight-lipped brim and a rakish, offside black grosgrain ribbon. All you do is remove a hundred dollars from the mink hat. This one is $10.

Both are on the Stacy hat bar in the Lawrence Shopping Center specialty shop. In between, you'll find a black all-leather poke bonnet for $18.95 and a beige velour with high crown and floppy brim to recapture the '30's look of Garbo and Dietrich.

across the store and pick out a silk overblouse, a sleeveless knit popover, or the wool challis popover in thick cream ($12) with its deep hemband of Persian design in jewel colors.

A kilt wrap-around in deep olive with brass buckle shows a youthful knee, and an oatmeal wrap-around with leather pockets discreetly conceals a more mature knee-cap.

Your Stacy dress might be the grey flannel double-breasted jumper with pin-dot white blouse, gracefully tied at the neck with a soft bow, or it might be the long-sleeved pin-wale corduroy shirt-shirt in mocha or bright red ($12). For the same price, there's a wide-waist cream or forest green corduroy lined with red flannel and fashioned with V neck, no sleeves, two big patch pockets with brass buttons and a low belt across the back.

Capes flare out of everybody's closet this fall. Stacy shows one as the third part of a knit suit done in shades of black and grey, the skirt black like the overblouse, and the cape "embroidered" with all-over grey scrolls. This is a brief cape. (And incidentally, that overblouse has the sleekest sleeves, fitted closely to the wrist in a point, and secured with a zipper).

A rain cape is as full as an umbrella, patterned boldly with tiger stripes, lined with black mink and fitted with a hood to keep your top dry. In quite a different vein, Stacy shows a poncho cape in yellow and red blanket plaid ($37.50) with brass buttons. A black herringbone cape, full length has been piped with black leather and lined with red orlon vyle. A matching skirt and a black sweater complete the three-piece ensemble ($75).

GOING BACK in Town Topics

FIVE YEARS AGO

August 14, 1958. The tragic contest of man vs. machine, in which man invariably loses, was much in the Princeton news. Robert L. De Sandre, then 18, was fined $40 and lost his license for a year as a result of the area's worst one-car accident in which four teen-age passengers in De Sandre's car were killed when the vehicle roared off the road east of Kingston. Though many thought the penalty much too light, De Sandre still had to appear before the Middlesex County Grand jury on four technical death-by-auto charges.

In another accident, Ervin Broadway, Birch Avenue resident, was booked for reckless driving after an 80-mile-an-hour crash sent four Lawrence Township youngsters to Mercer Hospital for treatment. Also, two young Princeton motorcyclists were in critical condition in Princeton Hospital after a head-to-head collision with a car; and a Skillman driver, 19, was charged with drunk driving, reckless driving and driving without possession of his license after wildly erratic driving on and off Westcott Road.

To help offset the gruesome news from highways came this "Question of the Week" from TOWN TOPICS: "What three persons . . . would you most like to have dinner with?" Said one Nassau Street blade: "Salome, because any party she attended couldn't be dull; Don Juan, so I could get a few pointers; and Brigitte Bardot, no reasons necessary."

No fish story: The general belief that there is nothing in Lake Carnegie but muddy water was disproved by young Walter Golden, who had heaved ashore a 32-pound turtle, big enough for a lifetime supply of snapper soup au Princeton.

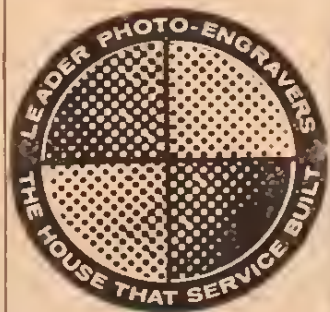

TEN YEARS AGO

August 13, 1953. Princeton's shopping center was, ten years ago, just off the drawing boards. Footings had been poured for the group of stores which, according to one lyrical description from the promoters, would "equal the length of Fifth Avenue from 42nd Street to 60th Street." Erection of structural steel was to begin shortly with the open-for-business date set for Spring 1954.

Elsewhere, the still (in 1963) nonexistent Princeton by-pass for heavy traffic was getting attention. Arthur S. Lane, 1953 Republican candidate for State Senator, promised that his election in the fall would bring from him full cooperation toward completion of such a project. Last week of July in 1963 Governor Hughes approved two million dollars for engineering and acquisition funds, but still to be determined is exactly where and what the by-pass will by-pass.

"Don't Forget to Write"

The year was 1910, and Hugh J. A. W. Male was a wiry young beanpole of 15, setting out from his native home on the Isle of Wight to seek his fortune in America.

His aunt slipped into his hand a florin, a two-shilling piece, and said to young Hugh, "Now, when you get to America, be sure you write me a letter," and of course young Hugh said indeed he would.

Well, the years went by — 53 of them in fact. And last week, Hugh J.A.W. Male, father of Raymond Male and elder statesman of Male's Book Shop, sailed for England to visit his ancestral home for the first time since he left it, as a young boy of 15.

But before he left Princeton, he filled a promise. He sat down and wrote that letter to his aunt, now 84 years old. "You asked me to write you after I got to America . . ."

"YOUNG DUTCHMAN: 25 years old, wants to marry an American girl. Only serious letters (with pictures if possible) will be answered. Letters to: Mr. Groeneveld, Jan Blankenstraat 77, Den Haag, Holland."

Township Committee introduced an ordinance giving patrons of bars and taverns a reasonable length of time to finish any drink ordered before the 12 midnight closing hour. The ordinance was set up so that patrons would not have to swallow their drinks before the stroke of 12, but indications were that the ordering of three or four drinks or a pitcher of beer at 11:58 p.m. would be considered unreasonable.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

August 12, 1948. Princeton Township residents, all 4,200 of them, were coming out of their quiet pastoral dells often enough to herald their fair land as the rich "doughnut around the hole that is the borough." Thousands of undeveloped acres awaited only prospective purchasers and lower (what's that?) building costs.

The suggestion had been made to TOWN TOPICS, which relayed it to the country squires in its audience, that the Township should push for consolidation with the Borough while its population was still small and the concomitant advantages large.

In 1963, with Township population up around the 12,000 mark, the undeveloped areas have been reduced practically to a square-footage basis, but the talk of consolidation, like a sylvan hook, babbles on forever.

In August 1948 movies were not yet pretending to be "better than ever." The Playhouse was exhibiting "On an Island With You," said to be "just another musical which leans heavily on the theory that hot weather entertainment can be very superficial." As for The Garden, "Lulu Belle" was dismissed by TOWN TOPICS' cinematologist as "a dull, spiceless piece of cake in which a calculating floozy (Dorothy Lamour) leaves a trail of broken hearts and broken men behind her."

A summertime problem of 1963 was equally evident in 1948, judging from a TOWN TOPICS classified: "PAR-ENTS! IS YOUR CHILD BORED? Send him to the Summer Play Camp, 21 Maple Street . . ."

FROM WAGONS TO WORLD WAR II: Charles J. Callan remembers his turn-of-the-century career as a youthful salesman of patent medicines. His advice to young men: "Chance favors the prepared mind." In the background, a childhood portrait of his daughter Anne, now Mrs. Russell O'Brien. (Story, this page)

Topics Of The Town

SNAKE OIL?

Never! Anyone remember Nichol's Oriental Balm? Kemp's Balsam? Dr. Lane's Tea?

Charles J. Callan, 83, of 157 North Harrison Street recalls the old patent medicine days with high humor. He was just short of his 21st birthday when he first picked a wagonload and set out to call on storekeepers in every hamlet in the eastern Pennsylvania coal country. He'd just been promoted after spending a year as the "Jell-O Man" throughout the Michigan peninsula.

"I used to load up the wagon needed two horses to pull it with Kemp's Balsam for coughs and colds, plenty of Lane's Tea for stomach, liver and kidney ailments, Dainlap's Corn Cure — you could make that in the back room, a couple of gross of Sherman's Headache Cure, Nichol's Oriental Balm for sore muscles (good horse medicine, too), a skin lotion called Liquid Franconia and Easy Shave — which as far as I know was the first shaving cream sold in a tube. A wagon could sell over $500 a week in those days."

A tall, keen-eyed Irishman, Mr. Callan looks back on those days with mixed amusement and pride.

No 8 to 5 Day. "When I was a salesman, I was in the first store at 8 a.m. and I didn't quit at 5. I worked as long as anybody would see me. If you like what you're doing, you do it well."

He laughed. "In those early days, I got so that I could spit licks wonderfully. We had these waxed paper banners for Kemp's Balsam and we'd nail them on barns, trees, anywhere."

"That was an art — to put 'em up so that the rain didn't get in back of it and the wind didn't blow it off."

Asked if the medicines included snake oil, he denied it, his brown eyes smiling. "Some of those medicines were good! Some were actually doctors' prescriptions. Kemp's Balsam would relieve the throat while nature took on the cure. There weren't many doctors in those days, remember."

For two years he rode the circuit. "I could pretty nearly unload the wagon in some of those company-owned stores." The trips were many months' long, with fresh supplies picked up at railway depots. A helper rode with him and distributed flyers and samples while he went after the storekeepers.

Sheriff in Pursuit. "We had a deal whereby a store could buy 24 cases of Kemp's Balsam and get three dozen free if he paid cash. That's how I nearly got arrested."

"I'd worked this arrangement with the son of John J. Roth in Schuylkill Haven. A sheriff caught up with me in the next town with a warrant for my arrest. Old Mr. Roth had sent him."

"Well, I said I couldn't take the horses 20 miles back down the mountain and 20 miles back up, so I told the sheriff I'd be there on Friday. He wouldn't agree to this, but he did agree after some persuasion to take $25 back to Mr. Roth."

"It's a funny thing I called on Mr. Roth the next year. He told me about the Kemp's Balsam man who tried to cheat him. 'Last I heard of that fellow,' I said to Mr. Roth, 'he was in jail in Texas.' Then, you know, Mr. Roth gave me an order exactly repeating his son's order."

Started in 1899, Warm-hearted, resourceful and Irish-tempered, Mr. Callan began in 1899 a career that paralleled the development of General Foods Corporation. As a homesick 19-year-old from Pavillon, N.Y., he landed in Pentwater, Mich., with salesbills of Jell-O recipe pamphlets and 200 samples. He'd been hired by the Genesee Pure Food Company of Leroy, N.Y., at $25 a week.

"I wish I had the $1.80 the first storekeeper gave me. It made all the difference in the world. I might easily have walked home."

"In those days, we were trained how to distribute booklets. That was an art, too."

"We did three things — ring, grin and hand in. If nobody was home, we'd leave the booklet tucked high in the door so the kids wouldn't get it and placed so that it would fall face up at the woman's feet when she opened the door."

Both the Genesee firm and the patent medicine company were operated by Orator F. Woodward. Mergers over the years with Postum, Baker's Chocolate, Maxwell House Coffee, Calumet and others resulted in the present General Foods Company — with Mr. Callan right in there all the time.

He was wagons' inspector for about three years, supervising the salesmen on the company's 25 wagons; later district manager for Jell-O, covering Pennsylvania and New York State.

Studied Law on Train. Still later, he re-organized the Chicago territory, and then took to the law. "I can see those volumes of Blackstone yet. Used to read them on the train each day."

"Finally, I was told I was ready for the Illinois Bar examinations. Never took them, though. I'd gotten what I wanted. The law trains the mind."

During these years, he took care of his six orphaned brothers and sisters, moving them from Pavillon to Leroy. He helped send his older brother to Williams College and Harvard Law School; most of the others studied at Cornell.

He waited three years to marry the pretty girl he'd met in Marysville, Mich. "Waited until the kids got taken care of."

"Sacred Heart Girls." Both his late wife and his daughter, now Mrs. Russell O'Brien of 56 Edgerstoune Road, were "Sacred Heart girls," which accounts for his keen interest in the new Stuart School on The Great Road. He has established a full scholarship and paid for the turfing of the playing field — gifts stemming from the long-ago day when he bought one share of the Jell-O Company for $40,000, one-quarter down and the rest on installments.

He became western sales-manager for Jell-O, then Jell-O Division head and closed his General Foods years after serving as manager of the government department during World War II, handling $100 million a year in contracts for the Armed Services.

In 1960, after the death of his wife, Mr. Callan came to Princeton to be near his daughter. A golfer, he scored a birdie last month at Springdale. "I can hit 'em as far as I can see 'em!"

THE NAME IS ST. FRANCIS: Katherine Arthur has enough charm to make a kitten purr at a bird, and a lizard to adore the hem of her garment. The seven-year-old animal lover also has, besides the kittens shown here, the mother cat, a husband and wife raccoon couple and various deer who drop in for a snack. Katherine is the daughter of Mrs. Mellugh Arthur, Lawrenceville Road. (Olli Steller Photo)

Housing Incident Regretted.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Having returned home from our vacation only recently, my husband and I have just read the letter from the Human Rights Group describing how an elderly Negro couple was denied housing in a white neighborhood.

We were much aggrieved to learn that such an incident had occurred in Princeton, particularly at a time when genuine progress is being made throughout so much of the country toward securing equal rights for Negro citizens.

We know personally of the couple referred to. We would like to record that we would happily welcome them or any persons of similar character as neighbors, regardless of color. We hope there will be other expressions of opinion to this effect and that they will be borne in mind by persons who have housing to rent or to sell.

Stagnated Desegregation.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
There has been correspondence in the local press for several weeks about the colored couple who were turned away from renting an apartment because the landlady, although willing to rent it to them, was threatened and abused by white people living in the area. In other cases one hears of the property owner or renting agency are not even willing to consider colored applicants.

Why is it, in a town full of "liberals" and "nice" people, that it is so difficult for colored people to rent or buy property? Surely, there are bigots and racists, such as those who made the threatening telephone calls in the case discussed.

But what about all of us who say that we want an end to discrimination? We do not make our voices heard — most of us have never actually said we would welcome colored neighbors or tenants, but in public, anyway. Let's not leave it to the bigots to do all the talking.

The stagnation that is plainly evident in the desegregation of housing in Princeton might begin to melt if more people who care about it, would say so at the right time and in the right place.

For instance, when a property is for sale or rent in Princeton, is it too much to expect to include in the advertisement a statement that there will be no discrimination? After all, this only attests to the readiness of the owner to comply with the law.

The Princeton Housing Group have been working for many years to obtain accommodations for victims of racial prejudice. I wonder how many real estate offices they have found to offer unrestricted rentals in the Borough or Township.

Dances Need Support.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
To run what they have, but still cry for more, seems to be the desire of Princeton's Teen-agers.

The Tiger Town Teens was set-up and carried out through the so-called desires, wants and needs of Princeton's young people. A place to dance, a place to make noise and in general a place to go and have fun was needed.

Now that the teen-agers' dreams have come true, no one is taking advantage of all their crying and begging. The 'Y' is virtually boycotted being the place of their dreams.

At the one session of T.T.T., 35 people paid the 25 cents admission fee, most of whom left immediately after, leaving eight to enjoy themselves. That night Tiger Town Teens lost money.

From what I have seen of other T.T.T. dances, there will not be many more before they are discontinued altogether through lack of interest. Parents should also be interested in these Saturday night dances.

It means a place where they know their teen-agers will be starting at 8 o'clock and continuing until 12 mid-night. The dances are chaperoned by the 'Y'. The music thus far has been records, but with continued interest it could be changed to live entertainment.

Tiger Town Teens is by and for the teen-age, but without the support and interest of Princeton's youth, it will not be!

He's apt to take off for Batavia, N.Y., on a moment's notice to see old friends and relatives, but he's still in the food business. Neighbors and friends lucky enough to receive small jars of jelly labeled "Callan's Kitchen" know he's been home for a while. His jellies make regular appearances at the Princeton Country Day School and Princeton Hospital fairs.

"I've had so much fun doing the work I've done. I've enjoyed every minute of it," he says warmly, "from wagon days to giant corporation."

To enter kindergarten, a child must reach the age of 5 by November 30. For prospective first-grade pupils, the minimum age is 6 by the same date. A birth certificate or proof of age must be presented. In addition to the medical documents above, new pupils in kindergarten, first and second grades must have proof of inoculation against diphtheria.

Sen. Williams Asks: "Let Me Hear from You"

"Probably no more important issue has come before the Senate in many years than the proposed test ban treaty."

With these words, Sen. Harrison A. Williams, Jr. (Dem.) makes an urgent plea to his New Jersey constituents to let him know how they stand on this vital issue.

Sen. Williams knows his fellow citizens well. "I have already received a good bit of mail on the test ban issue," he says "but I know many people give a great deal of thought to the problems and issues facing this country who are not in the habit of communicating their views."

He speaks of one western senator whose mail has been running about 50-1 against the treaty, and he refers to Sen. Dirksen's refusal to go to Moscow for the signing ceremony. "I mention these facts because the force of public opinion is going to be decisive in determining whether the Senate ratifies the treaty by the necessary two-thirds vote."

The proposed treaty would ban tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under water, but does not prohibit underground testing. The preamble proclaims the intent of all signatory countries to try for the discontinuance of all nuclear testing, and the "speediest possible achievement of an agreement on general and complete disarmament under strict international control."

New Jersey residents are asked to send their opinions on the test ban treaty to The Williams Poll, Sen. Harrison A. Williams, N.J., 352 Senate Office Building, Washington, 25, D. C.

Each student should bring his birth certificate, transfer card, report card and proof of compliance with local health regulations. If possible, each new student should be accompanied by a parent.

TASSIE BOY KILLED
In Fall From Window. Benjamin Tassar, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Tassie of Carter Road, was fatally injured Thursday in a fall from a second story window of the family's summer home in Mantoloking.

The child was playing on the second floor of the home when he fell from a window and struck the back of his neck on a porch railing. He died at Point Pleasant Hospital.

Also surviving are five sisters, Meg, Hope, Sarah, Jina and Suzanne, all living at home; two brothers, John Jr. and Mark, also at home; a maternal grandmother, Mrs. Marie Brogan of Forest Hills, N. Y., and a paternal grandmother, Mrs. Jennie Cummings of Boise, Idaho.

Mass of the Angels was celebrated at St. Paul's Church. Interment was in the parish cemetery.

JOHNSONS LOSE TITLE
To Cleveland Lane Home. The principal figures in last February's divorce raid and shooting, J. Seward Johnson and his wife, Barbara, lost clear title last week to their home on Cleveland Lane.

Princeton Borough got a lien on the property at 75 Cleveland Lane when the owners failed to meet a quarterly tax payment of $607.85 in overdue taxes and interest.

According to the Borough's Deputy Tax Collector Laurence Patterson, there were no bidders on the Johnson's lien, which was put up for bids at the annual tax sale on August 7. In case the bill is not paid, along with the interest accumulating at eight percent annually, the borough can foreclose after two years.

The large house and its grounds are assessed at $23,800, and the borough assessment rate would thereby make its actual valuation something in excess of $71,000. Under the lower state equalization ratio, however, the entire property is worth approximately $94,000.

6-YEAR OLD INJURED
By Backing Car. Mark Bigelow, 6, son of Mrs. Mary M. Bigelow of Quaker Bridge Road, was injured last week when he was struck by a car backing out of a driveway. Township police said the boy was struck by Roscoe Williams as he backed out of his driveway at 99 Dempsey Avenue.

Mr. Williams told police he had warned the Bigelow boy and other children playing nearby that he was about to back up, and that he started up after he thought they were out of the way. The boy was examined at Princeton Hospital after the accident and found to be suffering from a sprained back.

TWO GIRLS INJURED
When Car Hits Tree. Deborah Dollar, 17, 146 Linden Lane, and Carol Cook, 17, 61 Gulick Road, were slightly injured Monday night when their car hit a tree on the Princeton-Kingston Road.

Township police report that Miss Dollar was attempting to make a left turn into a driveway on the Princeton-Kingston Road, when she lost control of the car and it struck a tree just off the driveway. Both girls were treated at Princeton Hospital for minor injuries and released.

The entire front end of the vehicle was damaged, and it had to be towed away. No charges were made by police.

QUEEN TO BE CHOSEN
At New Jersey State Fair. Nearly $1,000 in cash and prizes await the winner of this year's Miss New Jersey State Fair contest, to be held at the New Jersey State Fair in Trenton. The fair will run from September 14 through 22, with selection of the Queen scheduled for Sunday, September 15, at 7 p.m.

The Queen will reign over the fair for nine days and eight nights making frequent appearances in front of the grandstand, in addition to appearances at various luncheons and dinners held by civic and fraternal groups. She will have a hard-top convertible and chauffeur assigned to her for her entire stay.

Contestants in the Fair Pageant will be judged in bathing suits and evening dresses by judges from Atlantic City, New York and from the greater Trenton area. The winner will be eligible to compete in the Miss Country Fair, a contest to be held in connection with the New York World's Fair.

Applications and additional information are available at the New Jersey State Fair Office, Box 669, Trenton 4, N.J. Contestants must be at least 18 years of age.

REFERENDUMS COMING
On November Ballot, New Jersey voters will be asked to pass on four referendums when voting time comes on November 5.

All are constitutional amendments. One reduces from 60 to 40 days the amount of time a citizen must live in a New Jersey county before he is eligible to vote. It also provides that United States citizens who have lived in a New Jersey county for 40 days may vote for President and Vice-President only, if they are not eligible to vote elsewhere.

In addition, it allows registered voters who move out of New Jersey, or out of one county into another, the right to vote for President and Vice-President by absentee ballot if they have not lived long enough in their new residence to qualify as voters.

Two other amendments are concerned with tax credit assessments. The first would reduce the amount of real and personal property credit given to veterans from $500 a year to $50. The second would reduce the real estate tax advantage given to property owners over 65 from $800 a year to $80.

The fourth amendment serves to legalize a practice now being followed in most rural communities in New Jersey. If passed, it would require assessors to levy additional taxes on farm land if the land is no longer being used for purely agricultural purposes.

Most farm land falls in the lowest dollar category on the assessment scale. If the tax office in a municipality should assess farm land on the same basis as other property, farmers would be forced to sell their land and would be driven out of the community.

In order to keep farmers within a municipality, therefore, and to keep developers out, many communities favor the farmers with low assessments and jack up the assessments to standard level if the land is sold for non-agricultural purposes. The amendment would legalize this practice.

CITIZENS GROUP FORMED
To Save Open Space. The Citizens Committee to Save Open Space, a new group composed of businessmen, educators and farm leaders throughout the state, is seeking to save open space by easing the tax burden on farms. Kenneth H. Klipstein, president of American Cyanamid Company, is chairman.

The first objective of the group is public support for a constitutional amendment on farmland assessment to appear on the ballot in November. Mr. Klipstein commented that the amendment "has been designed to maintain a desirable balance between industrial, residential and agricultural use of our land."

"Increasingly high real estate taxes on farms are inducing farmers to sell off their land. We seek to save tax paying acres that will continue to contribute to the state's economy," as opposed to the Green Acres amendment in 1961.

The amendment would allow producing farms of five acres or more to be assessed on agricultural value rather than their potential as industrial or residential property. A provision is included requiring farmers to pay "roll back" taxes for two years at higher assessment rates when land is sold for non-agricultural use.

The referendum has received bi-partisan support from the legislature and the governor. Serving on the coordinating committee from the Princeton area are: Elmer W. Engstrom, president, Radio Corporation of America; Dr. Robert F. Goheen, president, Princeton University; Leonard C. Johnson, president, New Jersey Manufacturers Association.

Also, James Kerney Jr., Trenton Times; Dr. Leland G. Merrill, dean, College of Agriculture, Rutgers University; James P. Stewart, president, Delaval Turbine Inc., Trenton; and Philip Alampi, State Secretary of Agriculture.

LICENSES REVOKED
For Points, Speeding. The driving privileges of eight area residents have been suspended by the Division of Motor Vehicles under the point system and the 60-70 excessive speed program.

Under the point system, those losing their licenses were: Alton B. Tomlinson, 31, 415 Terhune Road, one month; Vincent Muse, 35, 134 Mercer Street, Hightstown, three months; Thomas T. Willis, 19, 102 West Broad Street, Hopewell, two months; Howard L. Thompson, 30, Lincoln Highway, two months; and Chester Woolen Jr., 19, 14 Witherspoon Lane, three months.

Speed violators were: Herbert F. Perks, 18, Mount Lucas Road; Leonard F. Sands, 23, Route 27; and Arthur R. Parsons, 45, 104 Prospect Drive, Hightstown, all for 30 days.

Pennies play their part in all our lives. They once paid for a lollypop or a back-yard "cir-cens" show. Perhaps today the penny may buy less, but the importance of putting a penny aside in savings is the surest lesson in citizenship the youngster can learn. Pennies are important at the Princeton Bank, because every penny added to other pennies makes dollars. Even if you feel your banking business is pennies in size, there's a welcome waiting for you at the Princeton Bank, where Personal Banking service is open to all.

Dollars grow and grow when you start a firm policy of saving some of the dollars you earn. You can't keep them all, but a part of what you earn is yours to keep - save. And if the time arises when you need many dollars for emergencies, for a new home or a car, Personal Banking service will make your borrowing and paying back easier and least expensive. Get acquainted today with one of the experienced Personal Banking representatives at any of the three convenient offices of the Princeton Bank. They are interested in you.

PLANISTS DUE MONDAY For New School Course.

A summer extension program for 125 piano teachers and 35 students will begin Monday at The New School for Music Study, 353 Nassau Street. The four-day session is the final program of six held this summer.

Faculty for the 30 hours of intensive advanced study in piano pedagogy will include Miss Frances Clark, school director, David Kraehenbuehl, composer in residence, and Richard Chronister, chairman of group instruction.

Miss Louise Goss, associate director, and Mrs. Elvina T. Pearce, supervisor of private instruction, will give daily classes for the students in technique, repertoire and composition. The students will participate in a laboratory session with the teachers on the last day of classes.

The five other summer programs of the New School were held at Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex.; Claremont Summer Institute of Music, Claremont, Calif.; University of Puget Sound, Tacoma, Wash.; Moorhead State College, Moorhead, Minn.; and Mundelein College, Chicago.

TROOP 77 RETURNS

From Detaware Canoe Trip. Members of Boy Scout Troop 77, sponsored by the Princeton Township PTA, have returned from a canoe trip on the Delaware River, during their annual summer session at Camp Pahaquarra, Columbia.

Scouts in the troop set a record for advancement with Elliott Frank, Paul Mazzarella, Harry Rosso, Mark Bancroft, Jay Seitz, Philip Worn and David Keefe passing their first class tests. Second class ranking was achieved by James Staats, William Luman, Steven Sherman, Mark Bayern Jr., Craig Singer and Marsden Peabody.

Also attending the camp were: Robert Kennedy, James Ware, William O'Dea, Anthony Holt, William Wells, Edward Vernon and Stanley Parzan. Scoutmaster David Patterson is program director of the camp. Mark Bayern, Cubmaster of Pack 77, serves as acting scoutmaster, assisted by senior patrol leader Gregory Baneroft.

RECONSTRUCTION DUE

For Hightstown Road. The New Jersey State Highway Department has announced that bids will be received on August 29 for a project for the reconstruction of a portion of Princeton - Hightstown Road and an improvement at the Locust Corner intersection in West Windsor and East Windsor Townships.

The reconstruction will consist of a 44-foot wide undivided roadway having two lanes of traffic in each direction for a distance of about nine-tenths of a mile eastward from the vicinity of the Rabbit Hill Road intersection. The new pavement will consist of a seven-inch thickness of bituminous stabilized base course topped by a three-inch thick surface of bituminous concrete.

A 44-foot wide bridge will be constructed over Bear Brook having a deck of prestressed concrete. The federal government and Mercer County will share equally in the costs of the project, which will take about 100 working days to complete. All bids will be reviewed before a contract is awarded.

EMERGENCY OR NOT?

Dispensary Uses and Abuses. When does the accident dispensary at Princeton Hospital cease to be an emergency room and become a mere convenience?

A lady with a loosely bandaged thumb walks in to the hospital's dispensary. An emergency?

A middle-aged man staggers through the door and slumps into the nearest chair. An emergency?

A child, quiet and calm, is brought in by a Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad ambulance. An emergency?

The lady is quickly examined. The diagnosis: a slightly sprained thumb. The cause: pulling on a recalcitrant giraffe.

The man mutters thickly: "Want to get my alcohol drained off." A relative is called to come get him and take him safely home to sleep it off.

The child is examined closely, is found to be suffering from an inadvertent overdose of "baby aspirin." Emergency treatment is speedily provided, and the child is admitted for observation and further treatment as indicated.

One true emergency in three cases.

Increasing Number. The three cases, all of them actual events in the history of Princeton Hospital's dispensary, serve to illustrate the ever-growing strain placed on the hospital's emergency unit by the increase in non-emergency cases.

According to an analysis of emergency service functions at the hospital over a recent 10-day period, just about one-half of the cases could not be classified as of sufficient seriousness or urgency to warrant their appearance in the emergency room. These ranged from such complaints as temporary eye inflammation, head colds and superficial scratches to extremely minor bumps and bruises, insect bites and slight earaches — all bothersome and, in some instances, deserving medical treatment, but none of them emergencies.

Obviously, the hospital will never refuse to help a person who appears in the accident dispensary. But it is finding that, because of the increasing patient load in that department, it is treating many patients who should be treated by their own doctors during their office hours.

If non-emergency cases continue to increase, it might mean that the true emergencies would suffer tardy care because of the number of non-emergency cases which appear. The less time and fewer facilities used by these non-emergency cases, the more time, facilities and care can be given to those with true emergencies — the ones who really need them.

BOLSTER JOINS FIRM
Of Equitable Life, Joseph L. Bolster Jr. of 124 Parkside Drive has become associated with the Equitable Life Assurance Society as a Sales Representative for the Princeton area. He will be associated with the William T. Walsh Agency of Philadelphia.

Mr. Bolster was formerly associated with Princeton University as a member of the University administration. He served as assistant to the Director of the Bureau of Student Aid, Assistant Director of Admissions, and for the past three years as Secretary of the Alumni Council Committee on Schools.

A graduate of the Princeton Class of 1952, Mr. Bolster served in the Armed Forces prior to entering the University. He is married to the former Sarah M. Murdock of Washington, D.C., and they have ten children.

U.S. PAVILION OPEN
"Instant Architecture." The United States pavilion at the Australian International Trade Fair, designed by Robert M. Engelbrecht of Rocky Hill, has been called "instant architecture" for the speed with which it was created. The 12,000 square foot building was designed, fabricated, transported and erected in four months.

The structure, whose weight is 1.75 pounds per square foot, is made of crystal-like translucent panels, aluminum, plywood, vinyl weather strips and redwood trim. Despite its light weight, it has withstood winds of 65 miles per hour.

The building, with 22,000 square feet of exhibition space, can be disassembled and erected again in a different location with ease, Mr. Engelbrecht says. He designed the "Living Space Research House" for the Century 21 Exposition at Seattle, Wash.

quire the services of the accident dispensary.

Self-Evaluation. Solution to the problem, according to the hospital, lies with the individual concerned. It suggests that, before coming to the emergency department, the individual evaluate the situation to decide if it is a true emergency.

If the problem is not of immediate seriousness, the person should consult his own physician first and not go to the hospital's emergency department unless there is an actual emergency or unless the doctor orders it.

The hospital stresses, however, that if the situation is a true emergency, or if the person is in doubt as to its seriousness, an immediate trip to the accident dispensary is essential. To facilitate such a trip, an ambulance is needed. Persons are urged to call the police, not the hospital. This will save valuable time in the dispatching of the vehicle.

But, if you all have is a snuffle or an aching toe, take your ailment to your own doctor and help keep the hospital's accident dispensary free for those who truly need it.

GROUPING MODIFIED
In Township Sixth Grade. On the basis of a full year's academic experience, the Township School Board has decided to re-group its sixth grade in Community Park School.

The changes to be made were already decided upon before Township parents protested against the system, according to Mrs. Richard Schoch of the Board; however, the pro-

Deadline Extended

The deadline for filing business personal property information forms has been postponed until August 23, allowing New Jersey businessmen a three-week "grace period". William Kingsley, director of the taxation division, announced the change of date from August 1.

Vacations and the newness of the form were factors in making the change in deadline. Over 140,000 forms have been received, "an excellent return," Mr. Kingsley said.

Fines will be imposed on those filing after August 23. Forms are available at the offices of local assessors, county boards of taxation, or by mail from Local Property Tax Bureau, Statistical Section, Box 1998, Trenton 25.

test was welcomed by Board members because of the insight it gave into the way the program was getting across — or not getting across — in the community, Mrs. Schoch said.

This year, sixth graders will be in formal ability groups for arithmetic only. Previously, students were grouped by ability for both arithmetic and science.

There will also be a shorter day for sixth graders. They will finish at 2:40 along with the rest of Township children in grades one through five. Special enrichment periods will be absorbed into regular class periods.

Team Teaching Remains. Within the heterogeneous classes, there may be flexible groups in such subjects as reading depending on the composition of a given class and the way teachers feel about the individual pupil. Team teaching will again be used.

As the result of curriculum review last year, and curriculum revision this summer, courses in language arts, science and intermediate grade arithmetic will be changed. The SMSG arithmetic program will be implemented throughout, and each child will now have his own arithmetic textbook.

Changes in language arts and science will not be so obvious, because they are modifications within the existing teaching units. At Valley Road, there will be again this year a class of eighth graders who will use a programmed algebra course.

KAUFFMAN ELECTED
To Hospital Group Post. John W. Kauffman, Administrator of Princeton Hospital, has been elected secretary of the newly-formed Hospital Planning Association of Mercer County.

Totally distinct from the hospitals in the County, the Hospital Planning Association has announced, as its chief aim, the gathering of information needed to develop and maintain a "comprehensive, flexible plan for capital expansion and improvement of hospital facilities for patient care, education and research in Mercer County." To achieve these ends the Association plans a broad program designed to assist the various hospitals of the County in planning on a regional basis.

OGDEN RISING HOME

NO WEEDS WANTED: A helicopter loaded with granules of Aquathol, a new herbicide, hovered over Lake Carnegie's 3.38 mile length, and the report is "No more weeds." Charles Logg Jr., son of the former Princeton crew coach, went up three times with 600 pounds of the chemical. The north end and lake edges were treated by boat.

According to Raymond L. Steen, its new President.

The Association also proposes to suggest priorities for allocating funds for construction and modernization and to approve fund-raising drives on-ly for those hospitals with construction programs which conform to community needs. Richard G. Macgill, a trustee of Princeton Hospital, and Dr. Richard L. Barach of Princeton Hospital's medical staff are also members of the Association.

NO WEEDS IN CARNEGIE

After Three-Day Treatment, Lake Carnegie, plagued by a variety of weeds for six years, has been pronounced clear following a three-day treatment by Aquathol Plus. The project was undertaken by Consulting Biologists Inc., an organization dealing with water pollution, fisheries management and weed control.

The chemical was developed by Pennsalt Chemicals Corporation of Philadelphia and applied by helicopter and boat.

Watersheds Cooperating

Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association's program of water and land control will make it unlikely that such a heavy weed growth will occur again in the Lake.

The organization plans the construction of nine silt impounding ponds and lakes of Stony Brook tributaries, and has already made progress with the erosion problem. It is estimated that these two factors will reduce silt in the lake by 72 percent.

Charles P. Logg Jr., a gold medalist oarsman in the 1952 Olympics and son of the former Princeton crew coach, was the pilot, and carried 600 pounds of the herbicide on each of his three trips. A boat was used to treat the lake margins and its upper section where there are many trees.

The chemical was applied in concentrations harmless to fish, birds, animals and humans. Residents were able to swim within 24 hours after treatment. To avoid excessive dilution of Aquathol, the level of the lake was lowered, and that of six upstream lakes as well. After ten days, the area where the Millstone River enters the lake was completely free of submerged weeds, and within five weeks the entire lake was clear of fanwort and watermilfoil.

The silt in the lake had built up rapidly in the last ten years providing a fertile soil for weeds, some of which are developing strands as long as eight feet. This condition was most serious at the northern end of the lake, and the Princeton crews were unable to use this area last fall.

Only the actual costs will be charged on the non-profit project, and the investment sums were determined by projecting capital expenditure for construction, ground development, landscaping and land cost. The Manor House has a basic policy of independence from Government, institutional and religious financial assistance, or long-term mortgage obligations.

The Board of Trustees, a group of Princeton residents, feels a source of equity financing may be necessary to assure the start of construction. O. Kline Fulmer, 341 Nassau Street, is chairman. Princeton Manor House, first announced two years ago, is planned to provide retired and elderly people with adequate social, recreational and medical facilities, as well as a comfortable and secure environment.

elderly people with adequate social recreational and medical facilities, as well as a comfortable and secure environment. Over 1000 inquiries have been received from interested and potential residents for the House, the only one of its kind in the East.

Under recreation will be included bowling on the green, billiards, shuffleboard, a library, card rooms, hobby workshops and outdoor garden plots. Medical facilities, in addition to the 38-bed infirmary, will comprise doctors' offices, therapy, X-ray, consultation rooms and nursing care.

Completed applications have come from physicians, business executives, research specialists, lawyers, bankers and educators. Most are residents of the eastern states, although a few applications have been sent from as far away as Florida and Texas.

"Y" PLANS FESTIVAL
 With International Theme
 The color and variety of an international fair will come to Princeton when the YMCA holds its annual International Festival from November 7 through 10.

Mrs. Wynford L. Harries and Mrs. Charles B. Smith have been named co-chairmen of the event. Proceeds of the Festival will help to support YWCA's throughout the world.

A Treasure Chest of gifts from all over the world will be a part of the Festival, and the YWCA has asked housewives to contribute to the chest by donating objects in good condition which are no longer needed.

For example, an Italian knit sweater which is a size too small, a French silk scarf bought and put away and forgotten, or an English leather wallet which has never been out of its box — this kind of thing would be welcomed by Treasure Chest chairmen.

The YWCA has also issued an invitation to all volunteers who would like to contribute ideas, time and work to the success of the Festival.

ETS NAMES DIRECTOR
 Of New Test Program. Miss K. Patricia Cross, dean of students at Cornell University, will direct a new national program of comprehensive college tests for Educational Testing Service, beginning this fall.

The tests will be designed to help evaluate the status of those whose education careers have not followed a typical pattern, and to establish standards for awarding college credit for work undertaken under arrangements which differ from the traditional pattern of college instruction. They will be used in guidance, selection and evaluation of curricula.

Miss Cross, who holds a Ph.D. in psychology from the University of Illinois, served there as assistant dean of women and joined the Cornell staff in 1959 as dean of women. She assumed her present position in 1960.

Cory S. Kammler

We heard about an incident that gives you a sample of how contrary the thinking of the communists can be. It seems that at a Fair there were only two automobiles on display, one Russian, and one American. In due course someone suggested that several unbiased judges (none from Russia or the U.S.) thoroughly study each car to decide which was superior from all points of consideration. Finally the judges announced that the American car was far and away superior to the Russian car. This is the way the Russians announced the results: "There was an international competition among automobiles at the Fair to determine which country is making the best automobiles from every point of view, and we are happy to announce that Russia came out second, and that the United States came in next to last." We promise you will never hear such double-talk when you look over our wonderful values... our principal aim simply is to be your source of top satisfaction in all the factors that come up during a sale and after the sale... and this can mean so much to you that we cannot think of a way to put it into words. Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222.

Dick Colman's Estimate of Princeton's Football Prospects

"Graduation losses were quite severe last June, depriving us of some of our most valuable personnel. We have lost a senior backfield which played together the past two years. Also missing will be All-Ivy guard Tim Callard, end Barry Schuman, guard Tony DiVincenzo, and tackle Arlyn Lielthardt. This leaves us a lot of work to do in filling important gaps.

"We can field a fairly experienced starting backfield and will again have adequate strength at our interior line positions. However, problems which plagued us last year at end and center still are with us.

"Bill Howard and John Clarkson at one end and Jim Batcheller and Robby Robinson at the other form our nucleus and we hope for improvement from all of them. We still hope to come up with a "two-way" center but this will have to await developments in September.

"A lot will depend upon how we can operate under the new substitution rules. Princeton expects to make what use it can of specialists. We don't expect to be an easy mark but may not have the experience or depth to challenge for the title."

FOOTBALL OUTLOOK — III

(This is the third of a series of four articles on Princeton's football prospects for 1963.)

Much Reconstruction to Do. A football team which expects to take the field with a new center, new quarterback and new tailback, can hardly expect to find its attack operating with efficiency until the season is at least half gone. If, in addition, at least four of the entries in an eight-team league figure to be as good or better than they were a year ago, the combination of these factors may well warrant raising the storm signals.

Princeton, in effect, cannot be expected to finish in the Ivy League's first division, an opinion based on the Tigers' failure to do well consistently last fall, when they had a veteran squad from the outset, and on the relative strength of at least four of their opponents. Dartmouth, Harvard, Cornell and Columbia may all outrank the Orange and Black when the final standings are posted in late November.

Eight Regulars Gone. Only three of the players who faced Dartmouth at the kickoff in the exciting 38-27 finale last fall will report to Blairstown at the end of this month. In some instances, holdovers who gained a great deal of experience in 1962 are ready to replace them, and the level of ability will in no way be adversely affected.

But eight starting assignments to fill is a sizeable number, and three of them are vital to the smooth operation of any team. The coaches will concentrate at the center slot in the line, and at tailback and quarterback in the backfield. Fortunately, reserve depth is better than average where other major vacancies exist, at wingback and fullback in the backfield, and at tackle in the line.

The number one problem is finding a replacement for John Henrich, a three-year fixture as field general and blocking back. The coaches' choice should they go with Dick Springs, a senior who played less than 25% of the time last year, or with younger, wholly untried material in the hopes of creating greater experience for the position a year from now. Springs has the nod, off his seniority, but in the past decade, Princeton teams run by quarterbacks who did not win the job until their final year have encountered fairly consistent trouble.

On the plus side, Princeton should be stronger at end and tackle than in the past two or three seasons and can produce good running ability at all three ball-carrying positions in the backfield. Although not starters last year, Jim Roekenbach at wingback and Cosmo Iacavazzi at fullback will be as good or better than the men they will replace. If no stand-out tailback is so stamped before the season begins, there is good depth here, with the big problem to improve on last year's poor aerial performance.

By positions, this is the manpower picture on the 1963 squad.

Ends: Bill Robinson (6-2, 190) and Bill Howard (6-4, 212) are sure bets as starters. Howard, basketball captain-elect, is a downfield blocking asset. Robinson, who played more than any sophomore last fall when he saw action almost half the time, is already entrenched as a solid two-way operative.

Behind them, two more lettermen in junior Jim Batcheller (6-1, 180) and senior John Clarkson (6-0, 195). The best of the sophomore crop appear to be John Cashdollar (6-3, 210), Boh Haarlow (6-2, 190) and Dick Palicki (6-1, 185).

Tackles: Two holdovers here and, like Robinson and Howard at end, certain starters. One is the captain, 195-lb. Bill Guedel, who impressed steadily last year after ineligibility in his sophomore season. Dick Colman calls him "an extremely active and aggressive tackle." The other is Ed Costello, 215-lb. two-year letterman — the type of lineman who rarely is noticed by the average fan and yet whose play is indispensable to the team's success.

Good depth-behind them: junior Ernie Pascarella, 215 pounds and a letter-winner as a sophomore; Wendell Cady, same class, same weight as Pascarella; and two highly-regarded sophomores, Paul Savidge, Hun School alumnus, and Stan Maliszewski. These six leave the Tigers better fortified at this vital line position than at any time in the past decade.

Guards: Hard hit by graduation, with the departure of All-Ivy Tim Callard and Tony DiVincenzo, both starters, and reserve lettermen. However, junior Ron Bonomo (190) won his letter as a sophomore, as did 205-lb. Don Pett, and they are being counted on as regulars.

lars this season. Reserve strength will come from senior Al Swenson (195), a letterman. Glen Allgater (190), back in college after a two-year absence; and 205-lb. Ned Porter, with 195-lb. Krist Jake the top sophomore.

Center: Hopes are high that sophomore Kit Mill is the man to give the Tigers the two-way ability that has been lacking at this position for several seasons. A single-wing center in school and an impressive regular on the freshman last fall, he will be given every chance to become a three-year starter on the varsity. Bill Crano, (195) used almost entirely on offense last year, is the lone returning letterman at this position. Junior Bob Duncan (210) has the build but lacks experience.

Wingback: Rhymes with Rockenbach. Jim has the job wrapped up, despite the numerous injuries which hobbled him last year after a great sophomore season. Fast, shifty, hard as bed rock, he can hustle his 180 pounds through a broken field in a manner that gives opposing tacklers fits.

Junior John O'Brien (185), a converted tailback and able defensive player, is billed as Rockenbach's principal replacement. Sophomore strength is lacking here, although a specialist listed as a wingback will fit nicely into the picture. He's Charlie Gogolak, from whom much is expected as a placekicker.

Quarterback: Dick Springs (185) has the coaches' confidence as well as the team's. A real hustler, he knows the single-wing offense and if his blocking ability measures up to his potential as a field general, the Tigers will have a satisfactory replacement for Henrich.

If Springs is injured at any time, real trouble can develop. Senior Bill Dowhan (185) and junior Roy Pizzarello (180) are virtually untested, and the upcoming sophomores were not among the principal assets of last year's freshman squad. A personnel switch to bolster this spot is a Blairstown possibility.

Fullback: This should be the year that the Princeton faithful have waited for ever since one Cosmo Iacavazzi asked freshman coach Pep McCarthy if he would hold a scrimmage the first day of practice. Told no rather emphatically, Cosmo replied wistfully, "Why not? We've got 22 men."

The squarely-built 195-lb. fullback had a great sophomore year, despite his second-string role behind Bill Merlini—a fate that puzzled observers on other Ivy campuses. Cos averaged 5.2 yards per carry (more like a tailback than a fullback) and was the team's leading scorer with seven touchdowns despite the fact that he never started and rarely played behind the first-string line. He seems a sure bet for all-Ivy honors in his junior year.

Depth behind him will come almost entirely in the person of Bert Kerstetter, a 185-pounder from Beaver Falls, Pa., who gained the reputation of being the best freshman back last fall. If a third fullback is needed in any degree, it will be sophomore Clint Johnson, also 185, but expectations are that Iacavazzi and Kerstetter will provide most of the one-two punch the Tigers will need at this position.

Tailback: Somewhat surprisingly, a player who earned the ball only twice and passed only once last year has the coaches' nod as the probable starting tailback. No one doubts 175-lb. Dan McKay's ability—it's just that he was used almost entirely on defense last year, what with Greg Riley, Pete Porietis and Hugh MacMillan shuttling in and out of the four-back slot.

McKay's poise under fire will stand him in good stead, and as a junior he'll give the Tigers two good seasons at this important position if his running and passing develop as hoped. Porietis (180) and MacMillan (177), both seniors, are designated as the primary reserves—largely because their passing hasn't measured up over the past two seasons.

J. D. Askew, extremely light at 165 but fast, is the pick of the sophomores. Bob Bedell, 30 pounds heavier, has good potential but was largely out of action as a freshman with injuries. The Tigers have better than average depth here, but will need better than average ability from at least one tailback if they are to be any sort of threat in the Ivy chase.

(Next Week: The Opposition)

LEAGUE HAS 4-WAY TIE

For Fourth Place, A double playoff for the one remaining berth in the Business Softball League was scheduled to be resolved this week. No less than four teams finished the regular season pegged exactly at .500, but only one of them can qualify for the championship semi-finals.

As a result of the unprecedented deadlock, a double-header was scheduled for Tuesday of this week with the two survivors to meet in a single contest Thursday. The semi-finals will not start until next Tuesday, with the championship round to follow that. Both of these series are on a best-of-three basis, so that if rain interferes to any extent, the action could run well past Labor Day.

Either Accelerator or Columbia Carbon could have eliminated Engineering Research or American Cyanamid with a triumph last week, but both lost. When ERC and Cyanamid triumphed, the four-way tie with eight victories and eight defeats apiece resulted.

Cyanamid surprised by blasting first-place EMR, 25 to 14, the losers apparently coasting after wrapping up first-place honors in regular season play. Bill Blarhe was the victor in this one.

ERC, also in need of a victory to assure a shot at the last playoff berth, invaded Accelerator's home field and came back with a 12-7 decision. Meanwhile, Columbian Carbon was losing, 8-1, to ETS, Jack Dilworth winning and Ted Calder taking the loss. The tri-

ANTIQUITIES UNHINGED

By Young Upstarts, 11 to 8. The Old Timers provided the nostalgia, earned the role of sentimental favorites and made a fair share of the hits and runs Friday, but Father Time was playing on the other team. As a result, the third annual Charleyhorse Classic went to the younger generation, which never had to unleash its full potential and won a gentleman's decision, 11 to 8.

If the calendar hadn't caught up with Jim Samuels somewhere along the line, he might have dominated the occasion in spectacular fashion. As the Ancients' starting pitcher — some three decades after his Princeton career was at its height — he actually produced five outs in the first inning, but two of them got away from his support.

After retiring the first two batters on routine flies, Samuels induced the third hitter to ground to second. A misplay on that roller was followed by a perfect pickoff, only to have the runner run out of the rundown.

In between the first two outs and the last — some six batters later — the younger generation shoved enough runs across the plate to prevail for the rest of the evening. The Ancients staged a comeback in their half of the inning, but lost Samuels as their pitcher because he sprinted to first after drawing a walk. His legs weren't equal to the undue haste, but that arm, with proper support, might have gone on forever.

Two-Way Player. As might be expected, the versatile Tom Brophy began as Samuels' catcher, replaced him on the mound and still found time to let the umpires know they weren't always calling them as he saw 'em. Manager Jack Petrone hit a long double over third with a hook that he wouldn't have wanted on the golf course but that was good for two runs in the first-inning rally.

Versatility was also provided by Jim Carter, who batted cleanup but was fast enough to beat out a perfect bunt, and who switched from centerfield to catcher for defensive purposes. Roger Yard, whom former commissioner B. E. Bergeisen Jr. wanted to classify "with the real Old Timers," proved as able as any player for either side when he scored twice and drove in two teammates.

"Buff" Skillman, who was playing ball shortly after the turn of the century, was on hand Friday at Clarke Field to throw out the first ball. He had the same number (42) worn by such latter-day stars as Dick Kazmaier and Bill Bradley.

Others from other years included Jim Hogarty, who umpired on the bases during the game; Eddie Kopp, Walter Lewis, Charles "Polly" Stryker, Bill Geddes, Ray Watts and Charlie Sullivan. Vintage cars for the parade were furnished by Walter Groves of Hopewell, a 1921 Model T Ford; Albert Johnson of Marlinton, a 1922 Nash; William Doremus of Skillman, a 1940 Packard; Van Skillman of Princeton, a 1928 Ford Pickup truck; Walter Lewis of Princeton, a 1931 Model A Ford, and George Gallup 3d, a 1923 Packard.

MATTHEWS WINS

Takes Junior League Honors. Three victories in the final week of play gave the Matthews Construction team the championship in the YMCA Junior Baseball League. A 9-1 verdict over the Water Company, marked by Walt Brower's long home run, settled the outcome for the 1963 season. The Water Co. fell back to a second-place tie with Nassau Oil, each with six victories, four defeats and 2 ties in the 12-game schedule. Nassau Oil won three of its last four games to earn the tie for runner-up honors. Bowers was outmanned this summer, finishing in last place after failing to win a game.

The final standings:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Matthews	10	2	0	52
Nassau Oil	6	4	2	40
Water Co.	6	4	2	40
Bowers	0	12	0	12

THORNE'S ROLLS ON

Now 9 for 9 in Softball. A 26 to 5 triumph over Princeton Hospital was the most recent victory recorded by unbeaten Thorne's in the Girls' Softball League. Marion Fugili was the winning pitcher as the leaders raised their record to 9-0.

For the losers, the battery of Jerry Myers and Carole Osborne hit home runs, but the Hospital needed more than that. The defeat lowered its record to 3-6.

The second-place Warriors raised their mark to 6-2 with a 20 to 3 lambasting of last-place Engineering Research. Jeanette Guerra and Carole Bodine were the winning battery, with Ida Van Liew the loser.

Cathy Pasela, who also played well in left field for the Warriors, singled in the fourth.

News Of The CHURCHES

MORMONS TO BUILD

Princeton Chapel Planned. The intensive missionary efforts of the Mormons during the past five years have reached out to include Princeton.

Arthur J. Barlow of Trenton told TOWN TOPICS on Tuesday that the 60-odd members who have met for the past three Sundays at the YW-YMCA, Avalon Place, "will soon start a building fund for a chapel." Mr. Barlow is president of the Princeton branch.

The group is organized under the New Brunswick Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints. Members are drawn from Hopewell, Englishtown, Cranbury, Kendall Park and Princeton.

It is strictly a lay church. "There are no paid ministers," Mr. Barlow said. He is being assisted by First Counsellor Bruce Gibb, a student at Princeton University, and Second Counsellor Myron Manley, a graduate student at the university. They were called to office by the leaders of the "priesthood," as the male members of the congregation are called.

Other officers and leaders are Donald Gavett of Cranbury, clerk, David Christiansen, graduate student at the university, Sunday School superintendent, Mrs. Irene Pankovich of Cranbury, president of the Women's Relief Society, and Mrs. Marjorie Snyder, also of Cranbury, head of the primary department of the Sunday School.

Mr. Barlow commented that the Mormons now have 12,500 young men acting as missionaries throughout the world. Serving without pay and supported by their families, they pledge two years to the mission field.

The Sunday schedule at the YW-YMCA is 9 a.m., Priesthood; 10:30 a.m., Sunday School; and 12 p.m., Sacrament Service. After the chapel is built, the sacrament services will be held in the evening, according to custom.

Tickets, on sale at the door, are $2.25 for adults, $1 for children under age 12, and children under five will be fed free.

ENGINE CO. NO. 1 WINS

Defeats No. 3 in Playoff. A 6-1 victory in a playoff game, necessitated by a tie at the end of the regular season, gave Princeton Engine Co. No. 1 the 1963 championship in the Police Baseball League.

The victory was scored over Engine Co. No. 3 in an "all-guysmen's" final. The two teams had compiled identical 11-3 records at the end of the schedule, with Monday evening's playoff drawing more than 300 spectators to Pardee Field.

Tim Rollings pitched for the victors, yielding only a lone unearned run as he bested Billy Brooks of No. 3. Bobby McCloskey's single in the first drove in two runs for the victors, who registered another pair in the third when Pat McMahon hit safely up the middle. Misplays by the losers gave No. 1 its final two rallies.

Both teams won their final two games to create the deadlock. No. 1 topped the Sportsmen, 11 to 6, and Post 76, 9-3; No. 3 defeated Hook and Ladder, 6-5, and the Elks, 13 to 8.

The Eagles split in the final week of regular play to earn third place, losing to the Elks but coming back to trim the Lions. The latter lost both their final games but a 7-2 mark was good for fourth place.

WATCH WHAT YOU MAIL. No Chain Letters, Poisons. Postmaster Charles F. Murray has reminded Princeton residents what may not be put through the U.S. mails. Penalties range up to $5000 in fines and five years' imprisonment.

Among the items violating the law are chain letters, lottery advertising and tickets, sweepstake tickets, obscene matter, articles relating to birth prevention, liquor, firearms, explosives, matches, caustic acids, treasonable statements, poisons and poisonous reptiles.

Postmaster Murray said that, "In general, any articles, compositions or materials which may injure or kill another, or injure the mails or other property, are non-mailable. Primary purpose of the law is to protect the mails against damage, to protect those who handle them against personal harm, and to protect the public against fraud."

"Some items ordinarily prohibited may be sent through the mails if they conform to special regulations as to preparation and packaging and if they are not outwardly dangerous, or of their own force dangerous or injurious to life, health or property." The would-be mailer, in doubt about a specific item, should call WA 1-9563.

HIGH SCHOOL WINS

Against All-Stars, The Inter-Playground League championship was won last week by the High School team, which went on to beat the All-Stars Tony Pirone was the pitcher in both games. In the All-Star game, home runs were credited to Bill Bartolino and Lou Balesieri.

STATE IS "MOST URBAN"

More so in 1982 forecast. New Jersey will keep its position of the "most urban" state in the country, according to Dr. John Bebout, director of urban studies at Rutgers, who lives at 31 Ronald Lane. His figure for the 1982 population is ten million, with 33 percent under 16 years old.

The state's present population ratio of 800 people per square mile makes New Jersey the most densely populated state, and the hub of the east coast megalopolis running from Boston to Washington.

Dr. Bebout revealed his findings in an article titled "A Changing New Jersey: 1962-1982," which appears in the summer issue of the New Jersey Economic Review, published by the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development. He predicts the school age population will double to 2.6 million in 1982.

The author quotes Woodrow Wilson's remark of 50 years ago in connection with the projections: "All the great urban problems, all the great problems of water supply and of drainage, are right around us."

Officers of the company are Mr. Cashill, president; Junior V. Skillman, vice-president; Mr. Foley, treasurer; George F. Cahill, secretary; and Mr. Klieber, foreman.

NEW DAHLIA SOUGHT

For Tercentenary. Competition for a new dahlia, to be named "New Jersey — 300," has opened for New Jersey residents under the auspices of the Tercentenary Commission and the Dahlia Society of New Jersey. The winning variety will be reproduced at the Tercentenary Pavilion of the New York World's Fair next year.

The deadline for submitting entries is September 17, 1963. They should be sent to Mrs. Irene Owen, 345 Merrill Avenue, Bergenfield. Winners will be chosen at the Dahlia Show, Garden State Plaza, Paramus on the 19th, by the Jury of Award of the American Dahlia Society.

Silver Tercentenary medals will be awarded to the winners of the first stage of the competition. Conditions for entering the second stage will be announced late this fall, and can be obtained by writing the Commission, State House, Trenton 25, or Edward B. Lloyd, 10 Crestmont Road, Montclair.

An individual may submit any number of entries separately, but none are eligible which have been exhibited previously.

The competition was suggested by H. A. Dryer of Glen Rock, who is president of the American Dahlia Society, and adapted by the Tercentenary's advisory author and garden committee Phillip Alampi, secretary of the state department of agriculture, is chairman of the committee.

CHOIR COLLEGE CHOSEN

As Site for New Novel, Westminster Choir College is the model for the fictional choir school used in a new book by Rose A. Livant, "A Song for Pamela."

The plot centers around a girl who leaves her little theater group in Florida and comes north to attend Chisholm Choir College in New Jersey. The book will be published by Chilton Books in September.

YOUR CARPET QUESTIONS

When the term "installed" is included on the price tag, is the underpadding included in this price? If so, would that not indicate that though the price may be $10.95 a square yard, one really gets a $7.95 carpet so as to cover cost of padding, etc?

In getting an installed price your best protection if you aren't sure is to do this. Call another store and find out the regular price that pad and labor cost. Subtract this and you sometimes have the price of the carpet. This doesn't necessarily apply at all times, because you may be able to get a roll balance from stock. Best bet is to check what a reliable competitor would charge and judge accordingly.

Don't All Builders Use A Sill Sealer?

We do — but we will let the others answer for themselves. A sill sealer, by the way, is a 1" wide strip of fiberglass insulation that goes between the top of the cinder block foundation wall and the bottom piece of lumber of the house frame. It prevents cold air from sneaking into your house.

Come to PRINCETON RIDGE in Rocky Hill and we will show you just where to look for our sill sealer. At the same time, walk through the 8 and 9 room model homes for the other new ideas that all add up to bona fide home value. The models on Washington Street are pretty just to look at, too.
